Trade fair booths sell out early

By Steve Fletcher

Booths at the Drayton Valley trade fair have already been sold out and any that do become available are quickly filled, says organizer Marty Prentice.

That's one consolation for the chamber of commerce as it prepares for its fourth annual merchants' extravaganza in reduced quarters at the Legion Hall and the curling rink.

This year's loss of the arena has curtailed the size of the fair and is expected to reduce revenues for the chamber by about half over 1987, Prentice said.

Last year, the trade fair — the chamber of commerce's biggest annual money-maker — made roughly $10,000.

Ironically, Prentice noted that "demand (for booths) seemed to have been up" compared to the previous fair.

All 60 booths were spoken for by the beginning of July. The number is not down markedly from previous years, but Prentice pointed out that the loss of the larger bulk booths is going to have the biggest effect on the chamber's profits. Meanwhile, the fair's organizers — Prentice, Simon Kelly, Joe Melnyk, Natalie Gibson, Greg Fedor and chamber manager Karen Kirkwood — are expecting to see an increase in the number of outside booths.

The street between the Legion Hall and the curling rink will be cordoned off again this year to accommodate the exterior displays.

The chamber also plans to use the Legion Hall's stage as the entertainment centre for the three-day event. The entertainment, currently being coordinated by Gail Biedler, will include a fashion show and various demonstrations.

Prentice, who's organizing his "fourth and last" trade fair, said major door prizes each day as well as the usual giveaways and draws by the exhibitors will be a fixture of this year's fair as it has been in the past.

The trade fair runs Sept. 15-18.

Sewage systems under the gun

By Steve Fletcher

The sewage systems in Lodgepole and Cynthia are not meeting government standards, the Brazeau MD council heard last week.

This was revealed in a study assessing the current state of water and sewage facilities within the municipality. The preparers of the report appeared before council to detail their findings.

Chief among their recommendations was a call to abandon the sewage lagoon at Lodgepole. Terry Toma, of Triak Engineering Consultants, told councillors there was a "fair amount of leakage" at the site.

Triak's Bill Tkachuk added that this leakage has the potential to damage the surrounding environment, although it's "not impacting on anybody at the present time."

The consultants said the lagoon was "not functioning the way it should be" and called for its reclamation.

Likewise, the sewage system in Cynthia is also in a serious state of disrepair, states the report.

Toma said a recent County of Parkland video inspection of the system "found a number of problems."

"The sewage lagoon is too small...and probably quite filled up with sediment" that has accumulated over the past 30 years.

He suggested the municipal district "look into the ownership and maintenance...and get a good analysis of the system to see what's wrong with it."

The lagoon is operating beyond its capacity, Toma added.

The study also found that Cynthia's water system "has the potential for a lot of deficiencies," said Toma, who stressed that council look into the ownership of the system (which is currently in the hands of an elderly woman living in Victoria, B.C.).

The bad news for Cynthia and Lodgepole residents was just a portion of the study, which also analyzed systems in Rocky Rapids, Poplar Ridge, Back Creek and Violet Grove.

Among other findings were the following:

Rocky Rapids — There are fire hydrants with no capability for fighting fires. A treatment facility will be needed to avoid contamination of stored water. Toma said the sewage lagoon is discharged twice a year — once more than the government recommends. He added that a groundwater problem may be causing the overflow.

Back Creek — The consultants suggested an assessment be obtained. There is also a problem with muskrats burrowing into the slopes of the berm.

There were only minor problems attributed to the Violet Grove system and none were found in the Poplar Ridge area.

In an interview after the presentation, MD reeve Henry Rondeau said council will discuss prioritizing the sewage and water problems highlighted in the report.

He said the condition of the Lodgepole and Cynthia systems is something that "needs to be seriously looked at."

"I'm familiar with the systems, so it's pretty well what I expected," added Rondeau.

Cost of the study was $8,500. A second report detailing capital costs for upgrading the systems within the MD is expected to go ahead from council.

Local News Briefs

The Pembina Educational Consortium's plans to take over the town of Slocan appear to be almost finalized.

Councillor Jean Saunders told council on Aug. 4 that "it looks like an agreement" between the two sides will be reached.

A short list of appropriate names for the new arena complex has been put together by the town's recreation department.

The list will be presented to council at its regular meeting in September.

Brazeau MD reeve Henry Rondeau says beavers are a big problem within the municipality.

He said the animals have been busy this year damming water bodies and flooding fields and roads.

The MD plans on taking some action against the beavers.

Town council's transportation committee has asked for revisions in an agreement prepared by Brian Wade regarding the management of the airport.

The agreement had not met certain specifications requested by the town.

Chamber of commerce president Grant Menzies says an official is expected to visit the town later this year to discuss business opportunities available in Taiwan.

Recently, the Alberta Chamber of Commerce set up a trade mission in the Asian nation.

The Brazeau MD is continuing its search for a financial administrator.

The municipal district went through a first round of interviews without any success.

The town's General Plan review is currently in the drafting stage.

Harvey Allen, coach/manager of the Devils, planned to call the Heritage Junior B Hockey League Monday and ask for a year's leave of absence.

New Brazeau administrator sets priorities

By Steve Fletcher

The Brazeau municipal district's new manager has set his sights high.

"I'd like to work and make it one of the finest — if not the finest — municipal districts in the province," said John Eriksson, who arrived in Drayton Valley last week.

It was the opportunity of managing a newly-created government that attracted him to the position in the first place.

"It will be a good challenge, which is what I'm really looking forward to. And it's going to be a lot of fun," predicted the Swedish-born administrator.

Eriksson immigrated to Canada with his parents at the age of five and grew up in Pickering, Ont. After one year of university, he began his career in local-government administration in a number of capacities.

In 1981, Eriksson moved west to Alberta seeking a change. He worked in Slave Lake and Whitecourt before

John Eriksson is formerly with the County of Grande Prairie, becoming the assistant administrator with the County of Grande Prairie in 1984. Has his 18-year career in government prepared him departments before, but not in managing the whole province."

Although he's spent his first few days here essentially preoccupied with getting acquainted with a new system, Eriksson said his immediate priorities are to prepare a budget and an assessment and tax roll.

Both, however, are serving up fresh challenges for the neophyte manager.

Incomplete information and an apparent problem regarding the transfer of this information on to a new computer system has delayed the processing of tax notices, said Eriksson.

"We've received some calls already regarding tax notices—we request that ratepayers have a little bit of patience."

Although not expected out for at least a month, no major tax hikes are expected. "We are not going to disappoint ratepayers following their endeavors to have their own municipality," Eriksson said.

Lookout network first line in forest defence

This is the second part of a three-part series on forest fire protection in the Brazeau District.

See page 13 for the Initial Attack crew competition held recently.

By Michael McQuillan

Above tree tops in a 100-foot perch-top a pair of eyes watches the forests of the Brazeau District.

The forest sentinel scans the landscape for tell-tale signs of forest fires. A puff of smoke, a strike of lightning identify potential threats to the forests.

The watcher is Ali France, forest service towerman for the Brazeau Forest District.

France is one of 142 towermen employed in Alberta during the peak fire season from April to October. His ability to spot a fire minutes after it ignites can save thousands of acres of forest per year.

"In one evening you can spot five or more fires starting from lightning strikes," says France. "There were four or five fires I spotted that had the potential to get out of hand in a short time."

From his tower France can spot a fire almost anywhere in the 1290 square miles of the Brazeau district. Through radio the towerman relays the location of fires to the ranger station in Lodgepole.

In a recent government publication Bob Young, detection co-ordinator for the forest protection branch, describes the lookout tower system as "our main line of defence."

The Alberta government's belief in the lookout tower network is uncommon. Many provinces have abandoned the system in favor of other methods.

Brazeau towerman France is a firm believer in fire tower surveillance. This year he has spotted all 12 of the fires that have lit up in the district as well as others in other districts.

From his perch France watched the O'Chiese-Sunchild fire in May this year. The biggest fire in Alberta this year and the largest in the Rocky Clearwater Forest in more than 20 years, the O'Chiese fire burned more than 20,000 acres of forest.

Extreme fire hazard conditions made the blaze uncontrollable within minutes of starting, says France. "It looked like they were going to have the fire under control, but in 15 minutes there was no way they could contain it," he says.

In addition to lookouts the forest service relies on a computerized lightning locator system, infrared heat scanners and aircraft patrols to detect fires.

Drastic seating shortage in new arena complex

Four hundred and 40 seats...

That is all the new Drayton Valley arena in West Valley Park will accommodate upon completion later this year.

It certainly doesn't seem like a lot for a town of 5,200. Add to that another 700 or 800 just across the highway in Poplar Ridge and a large trading area that looks to Drayton Valley for many of their arena recreation needs.

Four hundred and 40 seats isn't even expected to be enough to accommodate the annual figure skating show.

And what about the future?

If the town is to grow, like it has in the past couple of years, will an arena with 440 seats be enough to accommodate the needs of a town with 8,000 or even 10,000 people?

The limited number of seats all but eliminates such off-season events as an indoor rodeo.

And if the junior Devils decide not to operate, it might be a blessing. If crowds did pick up, and who's saying they wouldn't, could the club break even with only 440 seats to sell?

Besides the lack of seats in the main area, a second ice facility, open air or indoors, appears to be on hold.

Recreation director Paul Nielsen says plans to build a natural-ice outdoor rink have been scrapped for the 1988-89 season due to some unexpected costs in the arena.

Nielsen says that at least $600,000 is needed to build a proper indoor second-ice facility. Just where that might fit into the town's plans is unknown at this time.

Aside from a drastic shortage of seats in a facility that could serve the town and area's needs for the next 25 years, the public should be very impressed with the energy-efficient structure.

Paper only as good as advertisers, readers

This week, a look at some of the people behind the scenes who make a newspaper work.

Any newspaper is only as good as their staff, the advertisers and their readers. We've been fortunate on all three counts.

We've made a lot of changes to The Western Review since Jan. 1, 1985 when I arrived here as editor. Some of those changes came out of our 'ideas' file while others came from our readers.

A perfect example of this is The Pastor's Pen. That idea was presented to me by Glen Lonie. It sounded simple enough; the ministers would provide the weekly copy and all we had to do was provide the space.

Frankly Speaking

By Frank Ryan

It's been a good match so far.

Another reader with an idea for us was Chris Kreiser. Prior to moving to Drayton Valley, the Kreislers picked up the local paper. Chris came in with an idea that the paper lacked some light-hearted news. Because of her interest and a talent for writing, Coffee with Chris was born.

While our reporters dig up a lot of leads covering their assigned beats, a lot of our news tips come from readers. And I can't express enough how vital that is to this paper.

It was unexpected calls that informed us of Centel Tucker's student exchange trip to Japan and Derek Hruska's scholarship that will see the FMHS student attend the United World College in Wales for two years. Both of those tips led us to major stories.

If you see NEWS happening, or know of something or someone that we could do a story on, keep those calls coming.

Writer 'disgusted' with picture

Dear Editor,

To say that I was disgusted by the front page of the Aug. 3 edition of The Western Review is akin to saying that last year's tornado was just a little wind.

A newspaper's responsibility is to be impartial and accurately represent the news as it occurs and to give its community a paper that is fair and representative of the views and morals within that community. The Western Review has now stooped to the dubiously distinctive level of sensationalist journalism.

To see a picture of a fatal crash is horrible and, sadly, realistic in today's society of fast drivers, drunken drivers and careless drivers. The Western Review seriously infringed on the grief of two families who lost loved ones in that horrible accident. You simply had no right - journalistically or morally - to print that picture.

Letters

And, to say you did have the right to hurt the grieving relatives with such a callous photo is pompous and righteous nonsense. I think we can rest assured that if one of the deceased had been a relative of the editor of the Review, we would never have seen such a graphic picture of the accident.

At the very least the Review owes an apology to the families of the deceased and to their readers for overstepping the boundaries of journalistic integrity and infringing the humane rights of those involved.

Wood contract angers businessman

Wood supplied by an Edmonton company for the town's new administrative complex has irked a local businessman.

Terry Drader, owner of Westside Building Products, says three companies in town (Westside, Beaver Lumber and Home All) could have supplied the complex with its required lumber.

"My tax dollars are going to pay for this...and I didn't get a chance to sell it to them."

City Lumber of Edmonton placed a bid for the wood tender and was awarded the contract earlier in the year, said town engineer Manjet Saran.

Peter Nielsen, a spokesman for project manager Alberco Construction, said his company accepted the City Lumber bid after placing an ad in The Western Review in mid-May.

He said the ad drew little response from the town's companies.

"We try and get as many local people, sub-trades and suppliers involved as possible," Nielsen noted. "But if they're not willing to respond, it's too bad."

Councillor Tom McGee said he's sympathetic with Drader's concerns, adding that local firms "should have had a kick at the cat." He noted, however, that the town followed standard procedure.

McGee suggested ways of improving this procedure to assist local companies should be scrutinized and pointed out the advertising of tender notices is often obscure.

Nonetheless, Drader contends the town should make it a priority to go to local businesses for projects that can be easily handled at the community level.

He added that he found it hard to believe a tender would be placed for the wood months ahead of time.

"It's a commodity market," said Drader. "Prices change daily...nobody would give a bid that early."

The lumber needed for the town project is Sturdy Wood manufactured in Drayton Valley, which must be purchased by retailers from a broker in Edmonton. Westside Building Products gets a break on freight rates because long-distance shipping is not required.

Calls for three-way stop sign

A request for a three-way stop at the intersection of 44th Street and 48th Street has been tabled by town council.

The request had been made because of increased traffic on 44th Street due to the development of the Northview subdivision.

Fears are the further development of the Northview Park and the retention pond will give rise to even more traffic into the area.

The decision to table the three-way stop sign was made at council's regular meeting Aug. 4.

Loans officer wins award

"I believe if you give good service you're not going to have disgruntled people," says Shewfelt, a loans officer at the Treasury Branch.

This enthusiasm for her job has not gone unnoticed. Recently, the chamber of commerce named Shewfelt the Employee of the Month for July in the bank employees' category.

Chamber representative Judy Forrest says the 14-year Treasury Branch employee was the "overwhelming" favorite among those who were asked to vote in this particular category.

Shewfelt says the honor came as a complete surprise. "I was so excited when I heard yesterday, I couldn't believe it. I said 'Wow, this is great.'"

The Peace River native has lived in Drayton Valley for seven years. Prior to her transfer here, Shewfelt worked for the Treasury Branch in Fairview, Calgary, Lacombe, Peace River and Spruce Grove.

When asked what she considers to be best about working at the Treasury Branch, Shewfelt quickly sums it up in two words: "The people."

"It's the people. I'm not a paper lover — if I could see 20 customers a day and give the paperwork to someone else it would be great," she said.

"Without people you don't get awards like this."

Terry Fox run set for September 18

The annual Terry Fox Run gets under way Sunday, Sept. 18.

The run will take place between 1 and 4 p.m. with the starting line tentatively slated for in front of the Scout Hall.

Drayton Valley M.L.A. Shirley Cripps is scheduled to be on hand to commence the run, held annually to raise money for cancer research.

Lioness Pam Schaub says plans are in the works to include a free swim at the Park Valley Pool for all participants.

Coffee, doughnuts and juice will also be available.

It's the third consecutive year the Lioness club has coordinated the event.

Schaub said a new twist has been included in this year's run. A local cancer patient will participate in the event as a member of Terry's Team, something every community in Canada will take part in.

She added that volunteers are still needed to man water stops along the 10 km route as well as to help coordinate the run at the Scout Hall.

Sponsor sheets will be made available at the Bank of Nova Scotia, The Western Review, Kentucky Fried Chicken, the post office, Frank Maddock high school, St. Anthony's, H.W. Pickup and Evergreen schools.

Organizers are hoping the run will be even more successful than last year, when $3,500 was raised locally for the Canadian Cancer Society, said Schaub.

A total of 76 participants walked, jogged, rode or wheeled their way to the finish line in 1987.

The Terry Fox Run raised $3,500 in Drayton Valley last year.

Area Liberal party to select delegates

The Liberals will hold a delegate selection meeting Sept. 6 at the Breton high school.

The meeting will elect 20 members to go to the provincial Liberal convention slated for Calgary Oct. 7-9.

Edmonton Mayor Laurence Decore, M.L.A. Grant Mitchell and current leader Nick Taylor are currently vying for the leadership of the party.

Spokesman George Spentance says the Liberal party is down to 30 members in Drayton Valley, but hopes a membership drive will increase the numbers to 200 by Aug. 31.

Beginning this week, the party will be initiating a massive door-to-door campaign to recruit new members.

In Oilfied baseball: 'It ain't over 'til it's over'

Safe! The tag was on but the ball slipped loose.

By Michael McQuillan

Nothing seems predictable in the Men's Oilfield Baseball league.

Bad weather has made the playing of scheduled games as reliable as a street-corner-purchased watch. However the big twist of the plot this year was the playoffs this past weekend.

Yogi Berra's infamous saying 'It ain't over 'til it's over' rang true as the Easyford Colts took the playoffs defeating the Drayton Valley Oilers 15-11 in the final game.

The Oilers, considered the favorites, were no match for the Easyford side in the finale with their impressive batting and pitching power.

Trent Pankewicz and Pat Darragh won the league's batting and pitching awards, respectfully. Pankewicz was also named MVP, while teammate Randy Pysar took home the golden glove award.

The Oilers won the playoff round-robin with three wins and one loss. They also batted in an impressive 45 runs to their opponents' 52 in the four games played.

The Colts came into the final game with two wins and two losses, edging out the Warburg Rams. The Colts played solid defense, allowing only 21 runs and batting in 34.

In the final matchup Easyford came on fast knocking in five runs to take a 6-3 lead after two innings. A crucial turning point in the game came when Pat Darragh took over the mound for the Colts.

Aldie from a sixth inning batting blitz by the Oilers, Darragh's pitching held the Drayton Valley bats in check. Easyford MVP, Trent Pankewicz, felt defense was pivotal in the victory.

"With the Oilers and us it seems whoever plays the best defense in a game will win," says Pankewicz. "Especially because both teams have pretty powerful bats," he adds.

Ironically, the Oilers won the playoffs last year after the Colts won the league pennant.

Curling construction begins September 15

By Michael McQuillan

While work continues on the new arena, plans are still in the making for the curling facility.

Bruce Clemmer, president of the curling club says the first shovel of sod will likely be turned by Sept. 15. Although the final building design has been finalized for months the club will be continuing to discuss how the facility will be used, says Clemmer.

The new two-storey structure will house six sheets of ice for curling, a lounge, 2400 square feet of recreational area and other facilities. The lounge and recreational area is expected to be completed by spring 1989. The expected cost is $750,000 to $850,000, says Clemmer.

The curling club has commitments of about $500,000 over three to four years for the facility, says Clemmer. The local Legion has promised $250,000 for that period. Several oil companies are also expected to donate funds.

Although the building will largely benefit curlers, other groups are expected to have use of the facility. "One of our aims is to provide facilities for as many groups as time and space will provide," says Clemmer.

The Derrick Boxing Club and many other local groups are expected to use the future facilities on a regular basis. Clemmer also thinks the facility will be excellent for the local trade fair and cattle shows.

"There's so many things the building can facilitate," he says. "Our idea is not to make vast amounts of money off user groups, but to have a facility that a number of groups can use."

Slo-pitch organizers optimistic

The Drayton Valley slow-pitch league is gearing up for its season finale Aug. 20-22. The league will be holding an in-house wrap-up tourney on that weekend, complete with a dance on Saturday night.

Organizers are optimistic the tourney will take place regardless of the weather, says league secretary Amber Wickstrom.

She added that this Friday has been set as the deadline for team entries. Clubs who played only in the first or second half of the season are also eligible to participate.

Any team wishing to enter the tourney should contact Kim Likuski at 642-3296 or Paul Sander at 542-0705.

Wickstrom said all teams are encouraged to sign up for the wrap-up tourney. However, a new rule this year stipulates that players are only allowed to play for one team.

Results not available

The Drayton Valley Neptunes swim club competed in the regional swim meet this weekend.

Results from the St. Albert meet were unavailable at press time.

Sky pilot

Steering through the heavens this skydiver gets the ride of his life. A number of skydivers were doing their thing out at the Drayton Valley airport last week. The jumpers were seen using an advanced parachute, pictured above, that allows for greater maneuverability and softer landings. One first jumper's comment was: "If it were any more fun it would be illegal."

Neptunes place 3rd

The Neptunes Swim Club of Drayton Valley placed third at the Westlock meet Aug. 7.

Neptunes' Kerri Meston was the outstanding individual swimmer, placing first in the 50-metre backstroke, the 50-metre freestyle and the 100-metre individual medley. She ended up with the aggregate trophy for girls 9-10.

Tanya Sprague was also outstanding, earning first-place finishes in the 25-metre butterfly and the 50-metre backstroke for girls 9-10.

The relay teams performed well and took first in the following races:

The 160-metre medley and the 100-metre freestyle relays girls, 9-10: Kerri Meston, Tanya Sprague, Kristy Saunders and Kim Barton.

The 200-metre freestyle medley (boys, 13-14: Tim Ragner, Ryan Unterschu, Daniel Wilson and Michael Smealand.

Kelepouris golfs at Jr. Nationals

Corina Kelepouris didn't win anything at the Junior National golf championship but she feels the experience was a worthwhile one.

The 16-year-old golfer from Drayton Valley made the Alberta team as an extra and golfed Aug. 10-13 in the tournament, held in Vancouver at the Marine Drive Course.

She compared the West Coast course to the Wolf Creek course because of its tight fairways. "I only hit one ball out of bounds but I was scared (of the tight fairways)," she says.

Kelepouris, who hit an average of 82 for the three tournament rounds, was a lit-

Corina Kelepouris is down on her driving. "I normally consider my drive the strongest part of my game," she explains. "I was hooking it really bad and getting into trouble."

She says the pressure of playing in a big tournament may have affected her game. "I didn't feel pressure but I was under pressure. It showed up in my score," says Kelepouris.

The young golfer has three years more to compete in the junior category and will be out to improve her standing next year in the nationals. She also hopes to make the Junior Americas Cup next year in Hawaii.

Kelepouris will finish off the season playing in the Drayton Valley club championship and the inter-club championship.

Cubs capture 3rd place

"We had a (baseball) team that could have gone all the way," says Vern Bartlett, one of the coaches with the Points West Cubs from Stony Plain.

The midget A division cubs returned Monday morning from the Western Canadian Championship, Prairie Division, where the team finished third out of four teams. Bartlett felt if the cubs had played the kind of ball they played in the provincials they would have won.

"The competition was very good but it wasn't overpowering," notes Bartlett. The cubs played their first game against St. Vital from Manitoba, losing 8-6.

The cubs managed a 4-3 win over the Moose Jaw Canucks in their second match. Drayton Valley pitcher Cory Dusterhoft pitched the whole game and another local, Kevin Burquist, drove in the winning run.

Losing 11-4 to Regina in their final game relegated the cubs to third place and dropped them out of the playoffs. Despite their final tournament record Bartlett praised the team's performance this season. "The cubs had an excellent season," he says. To be playing ball in August is quite an outstanding achievement for any team in Alberta.

Initial Attack competition won by Brazeau District

An Initial Attack Crew competition for the four crews of the Rocky Clearwater Forest was held Aug. 9.

Teams competed with shovels, water hoses, helicopters and other equipment in the one-day event held at the Lodgepole ranger station. The crew from Brazeau District won the event and will now compete in the inter-forest competition in Red Deer, Aug. 17.

The contest is usually held annually and tests the quick response of forest fighting crews in three simulated exercises. A dispatch exercise tested each crew's ability to locate, appraise and engage a simulated fire.

Crews also competed in fitness and power-pump exercises. Each team had to set up a water pump and hose line and knock down a target in the power-pump competition.

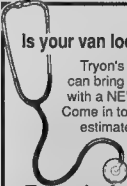

The Brazeau team had won the competition in previous years and has also done well in inter-forest competition. Bob Hilbert, chief forest ranger for the Brazeau district, says he expects the Lodgepole crew to do well this year. "They have a good chance at it (first place) and will be very competitive this year," says Hilbert.

In past inter-forest competition, Lodgepole has come second a number of times to crews from the Grand Prairie Forest.

Effective Sept. 1, classifieds will be pre-paid. We accept

Summer Games a first

Central West Recreation Association, in cooperation with Regional Recreation of Yellowhead, is pleased to announce the town of Stony Plain has been selected as the site for the first-ever Zone 6 Summer Games.

These Games will be held in July 1989 and serve two major purposes. First, they will be a focus for playoff activities leading up to the 1989 Alberta Summer Games in Brooks, AB. Second, they will provide competitive, cultural and recreation opportunities in a wide variety of events and age groups for a true 'festival' atmosphere.

Annette Drissen, chairperson of Central West Recreation Association says, "As the recognized authority for these Games we're very excited to work with Stony Plain and volunteers from across the zone make them a success." She went on to say that more than 2000 athletes are expected to participate in the Games.

Further information on the Zone Games and how you might get involved are available by calling 963-9153.

The Zone Games are a special project supported by the Alberta Sport Council.

Painting pastime

With two weeks left in the town's summer children's programs at Rotary Park, coordinator Cathy Porowski says interest has declined marginally. She said organizing activities could be a lot easier if there were more people participating.

The program was designed to give the younger kids something to do during the summer. Porowski stressed, however, the youngsters arrive for the day's activities on time. The program starts at 10 a.m., Monday to Friday.

Cattle Commission supports free trade agreement

The Alberta Cattle Commission (ACC) representing more than 40,000 cattle producers, has expressed strong support for the free trade agreement with the United States and is urging prompt passage of the free trade legislation.

Speaking on behalf of Alberta's billion dollar beef cattle industry, ACC Chairman Len Vogelhaar says, "The free trade agreement is virtually important to the future prosperity of Alberta's cattle industry. We are urging the Canadian Senate to deal with legislation on the basis of its merits and to ignore any political interference."

Vogelhaar added, "We were very disappointed by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture's opposition to the agreement. Their concerns are exaggerated and they appear to be representing the narrow self-interests of a number of supply management groups."

4x4 truck draws flak

A 4x4 truck was the centre of attention for a time at the Aug. 4 town council meeting. Councillor Gordon Ross expressed criticism with the town's plans to purchase a 4x4 truck.

"I simply do not see the need for a 4x4," said Miner after hearing that the half-ton truck was needed to travel the steep road leading to the water treatment plant.

He added that even a Suzuki could do the job and claimed a 4x4 costs a "substantial amount" more than a regular vehicle.

The town will be purchasing three 1989 trucks, including a one-ton and two half-tons.

Artists displayed

Local businessman Danny Thompson has created an art display at his store. Thompson decided it was about time local artists got a chance to display their work. He says the idea has been met well by the painters and he expects many more to submit their work for display.

'Cow pillows' latest change to occur on the dairy farm

Cow pillows have come to the dairy farm.

The latest in comfort for contented cows is a four-by-six-foot polypropylene bag that saves dairy farmers bedding costs and the hassle of trying to keep cow bedding dry and fresh.

"We're not ready to endorse these pillows yet, but everything I've seen and heard about them looks good," Ron Young, an extension dairy specialist for southwest Missouri, told a recent conference at the U of A in Edmonton.

Young said several options of cow pillows or mattresses are available, but the one he likes best is designed for individual freestalls.

"The plastic bag is open on one end and so you can put in suitable bedding like shavings, straw or rice hulls," Young said in a report to the American Dairy Science Association.

After the bag is filled to about four to six inches deep with bedding, it's closed up, then fastened to the brushboard in front of the freestalls and also at the rear of the stalls.

"The whole installation process takes only about 10 minutes - maybe five minutes if you have the right tools," said Barry Stevens, University of Missouri-Columbia dairy specialist.

The bag should be placed on a firm surface like board, concrete or rubber mat, because placing the bag on dirt can cause it to get damp, says Stevens.

Stevens has installed some of the pillows at the UMC dairy farm west of Columbia, Young put 10 in his own barn near Ozark.

The bags cost about $15 each. Filling each one with bedding takes about 30 seconds. Stevens said the bags could last one to two years, and that would make them a good bargain for dairy farmers.

"Some dairymen estimate they are spending $3 to $20 a year to bed their cows, and they have to put in new bedding every 10 to 14 days," said Young. "The cow pillows could be a real improvement over that scenario."

Leeches are a touchy problem

Some leeches feed on the warm blood of animals and humans leaving a tiny lesion on the skin which may not be felt at the time. Once a leech has attached itself to you, your natural reaction will be to get that disgusting thing off. However, attempts to remove a leech by force may not be successful and could increase the risk of infection. The proper first aid for leeches, according to the experts at St. John Ambulance, is to - remove the leech by applying salt, a heated pin, a lighted match, a hot cigarette, kerosene, turpentine or oil to its body. The leech will then detach itself from the skin and fall off intact. Do not pull or scrape leeches off the skin - cleanse the area around the bite and relieve irritation with a solution of bicarbonate of soda or ammonia.

Myeloma - tumor of the marrow

By Dr. Bob Young

Myeloma is Greek for marrow, myeloma is a tumor of the marrow, and multiple myeloma is an overgrowth of cells in the marrow known as plasma cells. The disease results in excess production of certain proteins which damage other parts of the body.

Secondary problems associated with multiple myeloma including eating away of dissolving of bone (causing pain), anemia, kidney damage and loss of resistance to infection.

The 'multiple' refers to the fact there are numerous areas, usually in the spine, skull, ribs and pelvis, that show evidence of bone destruction. The dissolving bone raises the level of calcium in the blood, and this also causes problems.

Diagnosis is made on the basis of symptoms such as persistent bone pain, anemia, weakness and fatigue, along with characteristic changes in the blood. X-rays reveal a 'punched-out' or 'Swiss cheese' appearance of the bones. Examination of the bone marrow is usually conclusive. Most patients are aged 40 or more.

Treatment is worthwhile as it can improve the duration and quality of life, but the disease is progressive, with patients who do respond to treatment living only two or three years on average.

Pain can be managed with drugs and x-rays to affected bones. The abnormal proteins can 'plug up' the fine passages in the kidney, leading to kidney failure which requires dialysis using the artificial kidney.

Infections must be treated aggressively, as the patient is immune-deficient and has few defenses.

Chemotherapy is used, usually with some degree of success. The most effective protocol and choice of drugs is contentious, but present medications increase average survival by three to seven times compared with untreated patients.

In some ways multiple myeloma resembles leukemia, one of the more treatable cancers. It is hoped that more effective management of this relatively common disease is not too far away.

The breakthrough may come from cancer researchers, or from those studying AIDS. AIDS is an immune-deficiency disease, multiple myeloma is characterized by an overproduction of immune-system related serum proteins.

(Medically Speaking is published with the cooperation of this newspaper and the Alberta Medical Association.)

Sports camp hosts 16 young Alberta pugilists

An Alberta Sports outreach camp for boxing was held last week in Drayton Valley.

Sixteen boxers between the ages of 12 and 18 and from as far away as Slave Lake and Medicine Hat came to take part in the week long training camp.

Head coach of the camp, Lawrence Duperron, says his aim is not to try and change the style of the boxers but to add to their knowledge. In my own mind I feel I have improved the skills of all of the boys," says Duperron.

Vern and Dave Hodgkinson and Doug Bolanatz also provided coaching for the camp. The young boxers could be found running, swimming, shipp ing, sparring and taking part in other aspects of training. A lecture on conditioning and a videotape on boxing was also provided.

Alberta Sports Council was so impressed with this year's camp they requested the camp be held again in Drayton Valley under the guidance of Duperron.

The boxing bags were worked over by 32 flying fists.

Service name of the game... 'we do a good job'

A road-level sign that once stood in front of the office was quirky and to the point. "We're not only exhausting we're shocking."

The slogan concisely describes Carline Muffler, which has been overhauling exhaust systems and shock absorbers since it first opened its doors in Drayton Valley six years ago.

The shop has been owner Melvin Moltzan's chief preoccupation since he gave up collecting geographical data for Hudson Bay Oil and Gas in the early 1980s.

Moltzan, who went to school in Drayton Valley, wanted to return to his home town and become an independent businessman.

"It's a nice place to live," he said. "...The people of Drayton Valley are great."

The auxiliary RCMP officer had been away from town for five years, having first left for Calgary and the Southern Alberta Institute of Technology to earn a diploma in minerals exploration.

Working for three years with Hudson Bay Oil and Gas in northern Canada was enjoyable but "very hard work."

Moltzan said opening Carline, a franchise operation with about 90 locations across Canada, culminated a long held goal of his to go into business for himself.

Today, Moltzan, married with two children, operates a four bay outlet and directs a staff of two.

"It's the only place in town that strictly does mufflers and shock absorbers," he said.

Appointments aren't required at Carline, where jobs can range in length from 10 minutes to three hours. Moltzan, who has input into the program direction of the franchise as a dealer rep on the Carline council, said the toughest competition for both his and other locally based businesses comes from the city.

"You can get bargain basement prices in Edmonton — and that's what you really get... what it boils down to is that you get for what you pay for."

Carline's clients don't fit into any one particular category, noted Moltzan, who added that the business has a relatively large drawing area, with customers coming from as far away as Alder Flats, Breton and Evansburg.

Service is, as always, the name of the game. "You can't keep a business going if you consider it secondary," he said. "I think we do a good job."

ATA holds conference

This week will see about 330 Alberta teachers gathering at the Banff Centre to participate in the 40th annual summer conference of the Alberta Teachers' Association (ATA).

Conference courses and seminars will deal with a variety of topics including educational finance, the School Act, collective bargaining, professional development, communications, pensions, labor legislation and political action. In conjunction with discussing their roles and professional responsibilities, delegates will participate in a variety of training sessions designed to offer them practical skills and knowledge.

The conference will open at the Eric Harvie Theatre Aug 15 and will feature an address by Dr. Julius S. Buski, newly-appointed executive secretary of the ATA.

Former minister of education and former provincial treasurer Lou Hyndman will give the keynote address at the plenary session in the Max Bell auditorium Aug 17. Hyndman will be speaking on political involvement as it relates to the ATA and its members.

Summer time for family reunions

By Mac Tryon
 Congratulations to the Berrymoor 3B club on their 50th anniversary July 31. The club was formed in 1938 with 12 members, five of whom are still alive. Ruth Berry and Florence Crawford were able to come for the day. They were presented with a cup and saucer with 60th inscribed on them.
 The next meeting will be Aug. 30 at the centre with a clean-up of the cemetery slated for 8:30 p.m.
 The community extends sympathy to the Gillespie family on the death of Gerald (Mac) July 19. Mac was a long-time resident of the Carnwood area.

 Sympathy is also extended to the Meade family of Breton on the sudden death of Bradley, July 27.
 Congratulations to Bruce and Debbie Martin of Drayton Valley on the birth of a daughter July 28. Proud grandparents are Allan and Valera Martin of Berrymoor and great-grandparents Allan and Helene Wideman of Drayton Valley.
 The Shipton family held a family reunion at Carnwood in early August.

 The Berry family held their reunion at Lindale. Ruth Berry from Salmon Arm, B.C. was in attendance for the reunion and the 3B's 50th celebration.
 Wilf Foll from Terrace, B.C. visited with Donald Martin last month. Wilf and Donald were in WWII together and hadn't seen each other for 43 years.
 Congratulations to Jerry and Sharon Bierkos (nee Kobeluck) who were married July 30. Following a honeymoon in B.C. the couple will make their home in Red Deer.

Unique Christmas ideas at lamb and wool show

More than 30 craft exhibitors will have unique gift ideas on display in mid-September at the third annual Lambs in Lacombe Sheep and Wool Fair.
 Sponsored by the Blindman Valley Sheep Producers Association the Sept. 17 fair provides something for every member of the family from sheep displays, ewe lamb sale and shawl auction to sheep dog demonstrations and crafts sales.
 Working with the support of Alberta Agriculture, the Alberta Sheep and Wool Commission, and Custom Woolen Mills, the event will feature a look at some of the top sheep breeds in Alberta. For more information contact Jennifer Oak in Winfield at 692-2490.

We live in self-seeking age

My purpose in writing this is to highlight the words of Jesus given in Luke 9:23-25, "...If anyone desires to come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow Me. For whoever desires to save his life will lose it, but whoever loses his life for My sake will save it. For what advantage is it to a man if he gains the whole world, and is himself destroyed or lost?"

This is a self-seeking age in which we live. Most people are too busy to seriously give attention to Bible reading, church attendance and quiet meditation on God's word. In such a society Jesus words come to each one of us "What advantage is it to a man if he gains the whole world, and is himself destroyed or lost?"

It is easy to rush along in this busy life, forgetting that God has appointed a day of judgement. He has committed all judgement to Jesus Christ (John 5:22) who is the righteous judge. Today, Jesus invites all men to come to Him. It is a costly decision as He indicated when He called it "taking up one's cross," but His words, "whoever loses his life for My sake will save it," are reassuring.

I urge you to pause and consider the destination of your eternal soul. What will it profit you to go your whole life ignoring Jesus Christ who came to be your Saviour, only to find that you must face Him as your judge?

Woloszn family moves to farm

By Alma Johnson

Lloyd and Leena Redlinger of Cold Lake were visiting at the home of her parents, Don and Spud Cherrington recently.

Terry and Heather Woloszn and family have moved to their farm in this area.

Norm and Alma Johnson and Larry and Maryann Law attended a wedding at St. James' last month.

Some area folk attended the Pembina Valley Dance at Evansburg on the long weekend.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Peter Rykka, who died July 28. Funeral services were held at the Evansburg Catholic Church Aug. 2 with interment at Evansburg Cemetery.

Sympathy is also extended to the Chris Woloszn and Jim Robinson families on the sudden death of Christina Robinson July 29. Funeral services were held at the Entwistle hall Aug. 3 with interment at Brightwood Cemetery.

Rachelle and Curtis Bloch are staying with Grandma and Grandpa Cherrington while Rod and Deana holiday in British Columbia.

Moon Lake

Eddie and Mae Olson of Telkwa, B.C.; Peggy Shane and daughters Laverne and Bolivia of Golden, B.C.; Caroline and Art Boles of Prince George, B.C. and some of their families, Marjorie Olson and some of her family from Edmonton, Martin and Kay Houston of Red Deer were among some of the people attending the Robinson funeral Aug. 3.

Laura Tuffy is home following a holiday in B.C. Some area folk attended the remembrance service held for Foley LaRose at Entwistle Aug. 5. Sympathy is extended to the LaRose family.

Ralph and Colleen Johnson and boys are from Bonnyville, not Drumheller as mistakenly reported in the Aug. 9 issue.
